Other Members Present:

Members Absent: None

Topics Discussed:

In our meeting, we discussed creating activity diagrams for all use cases, detailing their workflows, and also developing a comprehensive use case diagram showing interactions between actors and use cases. Firstly we reviewed the use cases after the professor's advice, in order to maintain a well-structured project. We also planned to create state diagrams for each interface and user level to illustrate system states and transitions, as well as a use case diagram.

Decisions Made:

We decided to distribute the use cases (in our project there are 33 in total) among team members for activity diagrams, use UML guidelines for consistency, and set deadlines for consistent work by all the team members. Decided to use draw.io as an online tool for designing the diagrams in order to stay coherent with each other's tasks. Created a shared Google Docs document for each of us to upload finalized diagrams.

Tasks Assigned:

The members have to design the following diagrams:
